

{DUE north}

atlanta eats

INTRODUCING ATLANTA EATS!

We can't think of a better host for a TV show about food in Atlanta than Steak Shapiro. The widely recognized media personality and well-known foodie is doing just that. Launching this month is Atlanta Eats, the recipe of which includes one 30-minute television program blended with weekly on-air radio segments, then garnished with highly engaging video-driven web content and plated with a dollop of social media for good measure. Each week Atlanta Eats pops into different restaurants from high-end to hidden gems — inside the Perimeter and out — to sample signature dishes, interact with chefs, guests and local food legends. According to Atlanta Eats Chief Brisket Officer & Co-Founder Cody Hicks, "[Atlanta Eats] is an endeavor that supports and spotlights the amazing talent and monstrous dining scene we have in this market." Hungry yet? Yeah, we are too. Stay tuned to CBS Atlanta 46 for your fix or visit atlantaeats.com.

PINK PLANNERS

Get organized in honor of Breast Cancer Awareness! This month, 40 percent of the profits from any Pink Planner bought on the Web site timeinc.com go to the Young Survival Coalition, an organization with programs dedicated to empowering young women diagnosed with breast cancer. These planners have savvy tools such as tear out pages, lists, inspiring quotes, reminder stickers and a 17-month calendar. For more information about the Young Survival Coalition, visit youngsurvival.org.

— Chelsea Strato

VELLUM WINE CRAFT'S FIRST ATLANTA VISIT

A RELATIVE NEWCOMER to the esteemed Napa Valley, this boutique winery was founded to elevate cabernet sauvignon to its highest level of elegance, purity and strength, and partners Karl Lehmann and Jeff Matthy succeeded with their first-ever vintage in 2007. Lehmann, after an honorable four 0f years of service in the U.S. Navy during the Gulf War, attended and graduated from the prestigious University of California-Davis Viticulture and Enology program.

Matthy exited a career as one of the youngest mountain climbers to climb the seven summits, including Mt. Everest twice, and joined forces with Lehmann in 2006 to open their winery. The two young entrepreneurs raised enough capital to harvest and produce 800 cases of the inaugural vintage of Vellum Cabernet Sauvignon. The winery also now produces Vellum White and Vellum Black. Matthy will join its local distributor and Points North for a tour of the Northside from Oct. 27-31. Join us for wine tastings or dinners during Matthy's visit. Complete details are listed on the events page at ptsnorth.com and on our Facebook page, facebook.com/pointsnorthmagazine.

THE KING AND ... YOU

Chef Nahm and her Nahm Thai Cuisine staff always treat their customers like royalty and they request your presence for their First Annual King & I Halloween Costume Party and Wine Dinner to be held Wednesday Oct. 31 and Thursday Nov. 1. Come dressed as your favorite monarch or royal subject from any country or kingdom, and enjoy a five-course meal fit for a king or queen. All five courses will be paired with a selection from Nahm Thai Cuisine's Royal Wine Cellar.

The festivities on both evenings will begin at 7 p.m., with dinner served at 7:30 p.m. Cost to attend is $59 per person, not including tax and gratuity. Prizes for the best costume will be awarded in each of the following categories: Best Royal Couple; Best King; Best Queen; and Most Curious Royal Subject. Space is limited for each evening and reservations are accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. Please call 678-762-1818 with your reservation request.

ROTTA'S MARK CAPORALE RETURNS

Rotta Winery's Mark Caporale will visit the Atlanta area again this fall, with a full schedule of events slated from Oct. 13-17. Join Caporale and Points North for one of these special winemaker's dinners or wine cruise at Lake Lanier Islands Resort. Complete details of each appearance are listed on the events page at ptsnorth.com and on our Facebook page, facebook.com/pointsnorthmagazine.